From the President

What a cracking start to the New Year we have had.

With two fundraisers already under our belts we are looking in fine form to raise our funding needs this year. Thank you to all members who have helped organise, donated goods, come along and helped on the day for both the sausage sizzle in January and the film evening just last week. Special thanks to Sharon Geue and Amanda for being the instigators and prime movers for both of the events.

It is going to be a busy and event filled year this year with two significant anniversaries to celebrate. Firstly, the 100 years celebration of Zonta International is creating lots of opportunities for us to attend other clubs special events invitations have already come in for some of those. There will be information in the newsletter I'm sure but also look at the emails coming your way if you would like to get out and about this year. I'm particularly looking forward to doing the combined clubs event the orange silhouettes on display that we are planning at the combined presidents meetings. Advocacy committee are working up an idea for how we can participate and we will get a chance to discuss that further at this week's dinner meeting.

The other anniversary is local – the passing of the Bill in 1894 for women in South Australia to both vote and stand for Parliament. I am thrilled that Joy O'Hazy is now well underway to her personal contribution to acknowledge this series of events through the four talks and walking tour in History Month (May) that she described to us at last month's meeting. As we agreed at that meeting Joy is happy for us to reproduce her talk on women's suffrage later in the year perhaps with some further contributions from our members. These dates and more are all in the comprehensive calendar of events that Amanda has worked up for us and are in this issue.

On a sadder note, the Board has received the sad news that both Diane Strutton and Jane Abdilla have decided not to renew their membership to Zonta International and as it were, retire from Zonta. I'm sure you join me and the board to wish them both well for the future. As our membership evolves and our early/ foundation members move on it brings us to a point where I feel we need to have a way to recognise and celebrate the considerable input that our long serving members have had to the club. I would like to discuss this with anyone who has an idea as to how to do that. In the meantime I have written a short summary of Diane's Zonta days in this issue of ZAH News and I'll do the same for Jane next month.

Please keep up the contributions to our ZAH News. It's great to see a lot of input this month.

Sausage Sizzle Report – Sharon Geue

We held our second sausage sizzle in 6 months on Saturday the 5th January at Bunnings Marion store and managed to sell 770 sausages. As I was floating up the Murray on a house-boat celebrating a friend's 50th birthday I can only report second hand. From what I have heard, we were perhaps slightly over staffed with volunteers initially on the day and that the day started quite slowly, but it certainly must have taken off over the lunch period to have sold that many sausages.

We were very fortunate that Woolworths at Marion donated the 40 loaves of bread and that Coles Blackwood gave us a $50 voucher to help pay for the sausages. Julie Monis-Ivett kindly donated 15kg onions as she also was unable to attend on the day.

Many thanks go to the club members who rallied around and to their partners who also donated their time on the day to make this the success that it was. We raised about $1700 after expenses.

Jill's Sausage Sizzle experience

Speaking as a member of the last working party at the Marion Bunnings Sausage Sizzle, I thought it was a great success. We certainly struck it lucky with the weather, but for myself, being in the older age group, I was particularly grateful to the wonderful husbands who supported us with their sustained speed and the physicality required to keep up with the cooking etc, not to mention the initial cartage of the food, the gear required and the tent erection and disassembling. I know Sharon Geue particularly also does a stunning job with the support of her husband Tim, in the acquiring of donations, purchase and transport of everything, but I thought the fellows were a wonderful bonus and I was most impressed with and grateful for their stunning speed and wonderful back-up given so willingly to our club.

Amelia Earhart Brunch – Sunday 20th January 2019

We like to begin our Zonta year by holding a brunch, not just to fundraise for the Amelia Earhart Foundation but to have a social catch up and slide gently into our new year.

This year it was again held at the Geue's home at Hallett Cove. We had a good turnout with a few even venturing into the pool to cool off. It was a most pleasant day with members and partners staying into the early afternoon to relax and catch up.

The movie fundraiser - Sharon Geue

On Friday 15th February we had over 60 people attend a movie fundraiser in the evening with wine and cheese served beforehand.

Amanda was the instigator and main organiser after finding the movie 'On the Basis of Sex', the story of Ruth Bader Ginsburg. The film is a true story of an inspiring and spirited young lawyer Ruth as she teamed up with her husband Marty, to bring a ground breaking case before the Supreme Court to overturn a century of gender discrimination. This was a very enjoyable and empowering movie. Those who attended had a wonderful night.

Farewell Diane Strutton

I would like to acknowledge a very special member who has decided after 17 years of service to move on from Zonta. Diane Strutton.

Diane began giving service to the community when she was quite young in the Scouts, no doubt supporting her two sons. The skills she learnt there were to be well used in her work in Zonta where she began in the Riverland club in 2001. This included a stint as President for two years and I believe she was involved in one of the earliest Shout's NO to violence against women whilst at the Riverland. This was an early indicator of her passion to make a difference. On moving to Adelaide Diane first joined the Adelaide Torrens club. Adelaide Hills Club was then very lucky when Diane chose to join us in 2009 and she showed a strong passion for education and advocacy, running our YWPA scholarship for 4 Years. The young recipients of our YWPA scholarships have been given a fabulous start in their own service to community thanks to Diane. However most notably for our club in particular, Diane pioneered the Expect Respect project in 2011 along with Lynda and me. She worked tirelessly on beginning what has become a very important part of what our club does – supporting young people and working with the community to provide service, education and advocacy towards a better future for women. Without a doubt Diane has been one of our hardest working, well organised and energetic members. Always willing to help in whatever area the club needed and to me my mentor from my first months in Zonta.

Sewing day 2009 with Lorna, Doone and Diane

I have learned so much from Diane and will always be in her debt. She has both educated me in the ways of Zonta service and pushed me to step up and take more leadership roles. We will miss Diane greatly I'm sure but hopefully she will come along to our functions whenever she is in Adelaide. I found some photos of Diane to share, apologies that they are mostly of Expect Respect but I think they optimise how Diane works, quietly and always in the background.

Dreaming of Peramangk

Mandy Brown's quest, as a member of the Stolen Generation, has rarely been easy, with records censored, scattered and destroyed. The scenario is one that reflects the state of her original people, the Peramangk nation, the first inhabitants of the Adelaide Hills. The tribe was displaced by white settlers and by the time Mandy came looking for her roots, much of the nation's history and knowledge had vanished.

She was raised as the daughter of English migrants, who came to Salisbury in Adelaide's north in the 1950s. "A lot of my friends, with dark skin, were given to families in the Salisbury area and they were all brought up with Cockney accents, which was weird," Mandy remembers.

"I wasn't allowed my own (birth) name, so I had to find out my own real name in my 30s. They did love us but they didn't want us to acknowledge our Aboriginality because they realised the stigma of it. There was no commonality until I met my (real) mother and she looked the same and had the same mannerisms".

Mandy's grandmother, Christine Hunter, was born in the Mount Barker region but taken to Gerald Mission, in the Riverland, as a child. Christine's children were also taken from her and sent to Colebrook Home in Eden Hills. Mandy said, "When I finally got the records after the Bringing Them Home report (the national inquiry into the separation of Aboriginal children from their families), it reported; 'Christine refuses the removal of her children' then 'Children removed'. A lot of it had been blacked out on the records".

Mandy says she and her three siblings were later taken from their mother, "because she was a single mother, and it was the late 1950s, my sister was taken from her and, when I came along, I was also removed".

She didn't meet her brother until the age of 36 and managed to meet her mum at about the same time, although she found a woman broken by mental illness after the many tragedies in her life. Her mother died a few years later.

She started her search for family and her tribe after moving back to the Mount Barker region in the 1980s as a married woman and with her own young family. She reconnected with the spiritual nature and history of the Peramangk.

A new cultural signage program is planned for Mount Barker Summit – a spiritually significant place for the Peramangk – is aimed at keeping local Aboriginal history alive.

Safe Pets Safe Families
Keeping people & pets together

Safe Pets Safe Families is a volunteer charity in Adelaide that arranges loving foster homes for the pets of people in crisis situations including domestic violence. It was started by someone who is a domestic violence survivor who lost her own pets when she escaped her violent ex partner - they were surrendered and she never knew what happened to them.

Amelia Earhart's Packard

While on a recent trip to New Zealand, my husband and I visited the Omaka Aviation Heritage Centre in Blenheim, New Zealand.

Among the exhibits there was the Packard vehicle. A closer look shows her initials on the number plate.

The priceless Packard was custom-built for the aviation pioneer, but she left it at the airport in 1937 when she embarked on the around-the-world trip she never completed.

Her widower sold the Packard to a notorious gangster before a judge got hold of it. He tinkered with it for 50 years. Then Ross Marshall, an Australian, offered to swap it with a Buick, even before he learned its story.

After restoring the car, Mr Marshall has loaned it to the Omaka Aviation Heritage Centre forming part of an exhibition paying tribute to women in aviation.
